HUERTA QUIBBLING
OVER THE SALUTE

Latest Reply is Merely Effort to String Out Negotiations.

The U. S. Fleet Continues on Its Way to the South.

(By Times Special Wire)
Washington, April 18—Huerta's reply to the latest representations of the United States was described by officials today as "unresponsive." Charge O'Shaughnessy's dispatches had been deciphered, it became known that there was more quibbling over the terms.

Secretary Bryan took the latest dispatches to the White House, to them before President Wilson, who again canceled his plans to go to White Sulphur Springs for the weekend. It was known that Huerta was making another effort to string out negotiations.

The Board of Aides, which with Secretary Daniels, is the executive force of the navy went into secret conference to complete plans for the movements of the fleet and marines. It was reported in official circles that President Wilson might address Congress Monday.

EARLIER DESPATCHES.

Washington, April 18—Upon word from Huerta denied vital development in the Mexican situation to-day.

The United States had rejected Huerta's repeated suggestion for a "salute" to the navy. Navy officials say they are sure, however, that salutes are only returned after the party apologizing for an offense finds itself in a position to do so.

Yesterday afternoon's meeting of the unemployed passed off very quietly. The men were in a good humor, but the audience, but the majority ruled them down when they attempted to incite a feeling of rebellion in the minds of those present. One aged member caused some fun when he accused the chairman of being paid by the government, which he denied, saying he was not so fortunate.

Rev. W. E. Gillett, acting as chairman of the meeting, said that there was no large a crowd present as at the last similar meeting, but he thought the reason was not so much because of the number of unemployed but because the meeting had been held in a widely scattered place. At the last meeting there was the necessity of enlisting the sympathy of the government and of the citizens, thus placing before them the pressing task of aid. The present meeting was called more to put before others outside the city the present deplorable condition of the unemployed and of emigrants to prove other's writings in the hope of obtaining work.

S. F. Landers received his experience when he visited the city on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, and re-

WIRELESS SERVICE

Hamilton Boats Will be Equipped At Once.

Notwithstanding an announcement from Toronto that all of the boats on Lake Ontario, with the exception of the three Hamilton boats, would carry wireless apparatus this summer, the local news media have been told that the three boats, the "Hamilton" and "Toronto" have not yet been equipped, such will be done within the next few days. According to a new state statute, a short time ago, no lake boat's wireless is forced to be equipped with wireless, and although the Hamilton boats do not really cross the lake, they will be made up to date in this respect.

BURNED TO DEATH

A Boafire Caused Helen Smith's Death.

Helen Smith, the five-year-old daughter of John Smith, Dundas road, West Hamilton, died at the City Hospital at midnight, after having been fearfully burned in the body as the result of a lamp fire on the bed. Her clothing, the little tot and a few other children were anxious themselves with a small bonfire in the yard back of her home yesterday afternoon, when the little girl, in throwing some wood on the fire, went too close. Her dress was in flames in a second. She ran across the room, but was attracted by the candle, but Mrs. Smith did not succeed in extinguishing the flames until clothing and body were singed. She then ran to the bathroom, where she suffered painful burns about the hands, arms and face. John E. Brown, well-known manufacturer, was at the hospital when the girl was admitted, and he placed the girl in his machine and rushed her to the City Hospital. She was unconscious and remained so until this morning, when she awoke.

The parents are almost heartbroken over the sad affair. The little tot was exceptionally bright and had great fondness for the neighbors.

FIRST MAN ON THE JOB.

One of the first local signs of the coming of summer was in evidence yesterday when an Anglican church clergyman, who for years past has been the first to appear with a straw hat annually, had his off for a walk in the local park, and sat down along King street west. The hat behaved very well, and probably will be given an airing every day until fall.

GIRL OF 16 BANISHED
FROM PARENTS' HOMEDeplorable Conditions Shown in Case of Policeman and Girl—Officer Resigns His Job.

Sensations galore were sprung in police court this morning when Albert Johnson, police constable, was arraigned on a serious charge preferred by a sixteen-year-old girl named Dorothy May. In swearing out the warrant for Johnson's arrest yesterday afternoon the girl said that he carried out from her room at 6 o'clock in the morning of March 26th and assaulted her. This morning her story was entirely different, and in answer to the magistrate, the girl admitted that she had committed perjury yesterday in swearing out the warrant. She said that Johnson was a boarder at her parents' house, 68 Princess street, and that on the morning of March 26th she got up at 6 o'clock and went out of her room to meet

Johnson in the hall. When asked why she had sworn falsely yesterday afternoon, she said that she did so because her mother and father were present. Both parents were called to the witness box by his worship, who explained to them that under the circumstances he was unable to determine whether or not the girl had lied. The magistrate, however, but it availed them little, and Johnson was given his liberty.

May Stockdale, who also boarded at the Pilton home, and who roomed with Dorothy, stated that before leaving home the girl was warned by her parents that if she did not swear that she had not been assaulted, the magistrate would not be allowed to return home, and this proved to be true.

After court the parents took the girl, who went continuously through the morning, that she would have to padie her own cause, and the magistrate very shrewdly handed in his resignation immediately after getting his liberty.

FRANCHISE BY-LAW VOTING.

It is just as well that municipal councils should know that there is little to do at which franchise by-laws must be used up. Yesterday, at Toronto, Geo. H. Gooderham's bill to provide, in cities of over 100,000 population, such by-laws must be submitted on January 1st was amended on motion of Hon. Adam Beck, who submitted the following, which was adopted:

"A proposed by-law may, and in circumstances a population of not less than 25,000 shall, where it provides for the purchase or acquiring of any public utility street railway, or otherwise into any corporation for the purpose, or for disposing of any public utility, or granting a public franchise, or making a regulation on the day fixed for taking the poll at the annual municipal election."

The Gooderham bill was aimed directly at the franchise by-laws of Hamilton and Ottawa, whereas the Beck amendment makes it a provincial measure in a full sense. Franchise by-laws do not spring up like mushrooms. The powers that be know where they are coming, and under the new arrangement, which will undoubtedly become law, can be ready for them. In fact, there are few powers by-law of any sort which could not safely be brought under the provisions of the bill.

Of recent years there have been too many appeals to the Legislature, on the part of municipalities, for special privileges in the matter of borrowing money, legalizing issues of debentures or consenting to acts which have not been approved by the electorate. The trend of the House seems to be that those things should be dealt with in a regular way, and it is better that it should be so.

THE OFFICIAL CHOKER-OFF.

A Martyr to the War Sense of Duty. To the war sense of duty, the Telegram refers to G. Howard Ferguson, M.P.P. He is. He may be a mistaken sense of party duty that led him to choke off the $500 Hanna enquiry. But maybe G. Howard Ferguson was looking ahead to the time when some chocking-off might need to be done in his own interest. He is a good actor, and the ultra Telegram says is worth reproducing. Here it is:

Loyalty to party requires G. Howard Ferguson, M.P.P. The Canadian government must be free away in the manufacture of rulings that deprive the Ontario Opposition of its right to be heard. The Proofsfoot enquiry was throttled by the strangled-choking chancellery of G. Howard Ferguson, M.P.P. The Canadian government must be free away in the activity of the Public Accounts Committee. The rulings of Chairman Ferguson may be right, but the party to whom the strike letter of the account. The multiplicity of these rulings tends to impair the glory of the Whitney Government. The party to whom the ultra Ferguson says is worth reproducing. Here it is:

Many Tory papers are gloating over the fact that a Cape Breton Labourer, P. D. wants a day on real coal. They forgot that the high protectionists are not always consistent. It's only a few weeks since Hamilton Tories were bugging at Ottawa for admission, duty free, of certain manufactured articles into Canada, to help an "infant industry."

The idea advocated by the Times from the time that the works department investigation began first to be talked about, that comparisons should be made of the cost of works done during 1913, seems to have caught on at the City Hall. And why should the investigation not be continued, road road? The able number in which Alan Robson and others, and their colleagues have brought the 1912 work leaves no room to doubt that they could make a good job of any branch of the service for any year.

HATS are BLOSSOMING TOO

A Smart Tam

A reminder of Spain

NOT more welcome are Mother Nature's own sweet blossoms than the bright flowers which are being displayed on millady's bonnets. After the more or less somber hues of the cold-weather season, the "flower hat" offers relief indeed to jaded eyes, and the heart once more leaps joyfully even at this artificial note of spring.

The little violet chapeau has an almost coquettish closeness, and its foundation of milliner's scrim and lavender maline is entirely covered with "sweet violet" violets. The hat is large enough to pass for a picture panel. On one side there are placed almost lightly as a butterfly, two tiny metal wings that glisten and tremble as the wearer moves.

Violet is the stiff little tam-o'-shanter of hemp braid. This hat is, of course, handmade. The black shape is relieved by a double band of loose-petaled roses, and the band is joined where the two corners meet. Twisted about the crown and through the roses is a strip of black velvet ribbon. The rolled brim of this hat is about an inch higher on the left side than on the right.

More than jaunty, almost rakishness itself, is the new plateau hat, which our grandmothers knew by "old-faithful" pretensions to "old-world" ways, and which they, in turn, copied from the still earlier mandarin hat.

One cannot but think what an excellent lamp mat this hat would make were it pressed out flat, so slight a suggestion of a crown is there. This new plateau creation is made of warm brown hemp braid, with a piping of brown velvet peeping from the underedge of the brim.

The velvet is merely a piping, for to face the outside hat with it would make it too weighty for spring and summer wear.

Artistically scattered over the top of the hat are lavender and violet blossoms. A bandage supports the hat upon the head, rising highest at the side back, and thus giving it the rakish tilt. At the left-side back the plateau is covered with loops of brown satin ribbon. The main band is covered with white roses, where the plateau hat is, otherwise it will emphasize any least suggestion of boldness that lurks all unknowingly in some of our faces.

an excellent and fragrant cap, and a welcome source of features than by the prominence of our natures.

The New-Old Plateau

Of Artistic Line

Sweet Violets

Such a hat may be worn by maid or matron. Artistic and charming in every line is the broad hat of natural-colored straw adorned simply with a broad and back bow of wide black velvet ribbon. About the beautifully shaped brim are rather large pale pink garlands. Much depends upon the angle at which this hat is worn.

The hat of most simple line frequently needs the most delicate and artistic finishing.

One is reminded of Spain when catching a first glimpse of the little tilted rose-crown hat. Jauntily it sits upon the head, and the wide, flat, broad brim prevents it from being absolutely rakish.

Needless to say, only the youthful need attempt to wear this extreme style with the expectation of its being becoming. The roses in the crown extend well to the brim and beyond the line of joining where the two corners meet.

Twisted about the crown and through the roses is a

Will Demand Help From Government

informed his statements given before the Board of Control on Thursday morning. He observed that the old residents of the city should have preferred to have the new ones who had recently come into the city, and referred to these latter as interlopers, when a voice came from the crowd objecting to the use of the word "interlopers." It was a disgrace to humanity to use such a word, Mr. Landers said he did not use the word, but it was a good word, but would willingly withdraw it if it hurt any person's sensitive susceptibilities. He further stated that he would be a candidate then and there for giving them the true statement of facts rather than be compelled to give up with false hopes.

He told the meeting that there was no civil work to be had for more than 400 men, men who were at present unemployed.

"There is absolutely no civil work for those who are here now," he said, "and I would like to have something done to prevent others coming into the city," he said.

Mr. Landers' point was that the present was an unusual situation, and one would, in all probability, be compelled to go to the city, and hoped the city would make some extraordinary efforts to supply work, and would petition the government to open up public works.

Controller Cooper briefly outlined the situation from the city viewpoint, and said he would tell every man who came to report for civil work the next morning. The city fathers were to meet to the same end, and the situation was to be remedied by some means pleasant to them to see unemployed and hungry men marching the streets.

He said that the men who came in at the half-day to work when there was not the work to do. They must discriminate against the young and single men, and give preference to the married and honest idle citizens.

"If you can work elsewhere in the city, I would advise you to go, he said.

He then referred to the city work done last year, and said that it would cost $650,000, and the city could not raise the money.

Hugh C. Farmer said he could place 600 men, and had placed 600 since Dec. 1 at wages ranging from $15 to $45 per month, with benefit.

Mr. Farmer said he was in the process of getting a resolution from the Government to appoint a commission to inquire into the cause and effect of the present unemployment, and to make recommendations to do away with such possibilities in the future, and also to open up as much Government work as possible.

A copy of this resolution will be forwarded to the Premier and all the local members of Parliament.

TO CONSERVATIVE VOTERS.

To the Editor of the Times:

Dear Sir—Let the voter at the next Ontario general election be a conservative, whether Reformer or Conservative, consider well how they vote on the abolish-the-bar question. Make sure that he will support Mr. Bowell yes, that he will support Mr. Bowell to abolish the bar. They will be the voters indeed who will say "yes" here in the future to the cause of temperance.

The marchioness of Allan, now Mr. Bowell has for the third time published in the cause of temperance in the House of Commons, will introduce a measure to abolish the bar and the Liberal party will support it. The Methodist Church has always been in the lead in this cause, and the Presbyterians, nearly a year ago, both ministers and laymen, at a general assembly, voted six thousand to six thousand, every one stood up for temperance. How will these people vote this time. Let the voter here or elsewhere in the secret compartment to mark their bullet sent a quiet communication to the Allian. We are given to understand this measure is impossible, but surely no Christian gentleman will do otherwise and all should vote. Yours with sincere hope of success.

Thos. S. Henderson.

LUMGAIN TO ALLAN.

To the Editor of the Times:

Dear Sir—The Allan certainly shows incompetency, and is too small to grasp the situation when he refuses old and new work. These men have had no time for years. I notice they offer to work for 20 and 22 cents per hour. Mr. Mayor had not the time to pay this bankrupt corporation a profit. Poor Allan, I think he has been saying and unsaying things so much that it is evident only one half of his head is working. Let us have a change and this tomorow. Get the old men to work.

N. S. Lomgair.

Centenary Church, having handed over a cheque to Secretary Brown this morning for $500 from the congregation in aid of the Y. M. C. A. The officers of the Board are hopeful that other churches will emulate the good example of St. Giles' and Centenary and assist in swelling the fund to a substantial amount. The response to the Board's efforts from other churches has been gratifying.

The cause is worthy of the strongest kind of support and neither the officers nor the members of the Board in charge to make a more creditable showing within the next week.

Three More Players Reported to Manager Yates This Morning

Dudley, White and Evans Arrived and Will be Out This Afternoon.

The three hundred rail birds that attended the practice of the Hamilton baseball club had a good time in their transportation, they had to show their own fares here just to show how the national game should be played.

President Nelson was struck with their confidence and dimensions, got them to go to the practice and to the H. A. A. grounds are predicted the winner of this year's Canadian League already, despite the fact that they have never seen any of the other teams in the league work, and they are all of the one opinion that if any team in the race this year is faster than the local crew they are sure to be fast. At Yates' practice yesterday Yates had sixteen men out, and the manner in which they worked on the rough ground was something out of the ordinary. Every man on the in-field handlined grounders in the best of style, and the manner in which they got rid of the ball was a sight to witness.

Enrich, the shortstop who reported here from Baltimore on Wednesday showed the rail birds some real baseball yesterday afternoon, and won rounds of applause from the large crowd present. This boy is also some stickler, and during his time at the ball park he has less than two of the right field foul balls to his credit, is working out at the same position, also showed up well, and it will be a hard task to pick out the better man.

Biz "Red" Fisher showed some real stuff with the willow yesterday afternoon, and he has a good record, but he is at his best. He has not taken on any weight, but he seems to be a little slower than the others, and he has promised to add one hundred points to his batting average this year, which will bring it up to three.

Dartington and Ransone, the other two catchers, are working hard, and the two are good birds, and have shown wonderful gripping arms. Ransone puts life into the infield, and it is more than likely that he will be the best of the "G-men" here the season is closed.

Dudley, White and Evans arrived in town this morning, and will turn out this afternoon. This makes nineteen men in all that have reported so far this season.

Deasius and Dougherty have taken on a little weight since last season, and Patay has taken on a little height, which should be a great thing in his favor this year.

The men will practice this afternoon at the H. A. A. grounds, and the press will have the opportunity to see the team work.

Brantford, April 17.—When Harvey Price, catcher, and Ernest Hallbeck, infelder, both from Meriden, Conn., men had been here to see the team, and Major Danes, earlier in the season, on whom no checks were sent for transportation, walked into Brantford office this afternoon after brushing the office boy aside, that man nearly suffocated an attack of heart failure. However, after the first greetings were over the two an-forwarded through the proper authorities an invitation to the entire party to take in the ball game, and as his royal highness had been here the last few days, was coming to Canada, the committee on arrangements decided to accept the invitation.

Gossip of Wall Street

(Supplied by H. P. Coleman, 19 King

New York, April 17.—To-day will probably see another unsold stock market, which meets offerings on railroads, and the railroads are the railroads. Weak spots are being sought out on the general list, and we expect to see a general market, but some protective selling takes place in the standard stocks. This is a general and will satisfactorily affect the market for the winter, but the class issues, a condition that should be temporary. Good absorption is probably to be had, but the market is still in a state of flux, and as soon as the standard department liquidation shall have been completed we will again be in a position to sell stocks, but the rest of the market is quite steady. Home rails, gilt-edged securities and mining shares hardened on the market.

American securities opened unchanged and, after moving irregularly, closed at 3-5 above par. There was a good supply of money, and discount rates were easy. BROADSTREET'S TRADE REVIEW

Toronto—With the coming of spring business has been opening up in a satisfactory way. The boot and shoe firms report a fairly active trade, and the other drygoods and hardware firms report favorable sales. Orders are coming in, and the conservative buying on weakness with the intent to realize in Readings, Philadelphia, and other cities. Stock sales will give good results later on to those courageous enough to act.

MATERIAL VIEWS.

Times.—The recent short sellers of steel find much to exacerbate in the action of the shares.

Consolidated—Much confidence is placed in a rally caused by nothing but short covering.

American—Favorable signs are apparent, but the market is heavily overvalued.

Wool—Wool is well available.

Stocks—Large—Stocks will be well received.

Turkey, New York—Stocks will be well received.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD POET.

"He has learned neither to read nor to write, and has but one word to say: 'Mother.' I want to send special words to you, and then with his eyes looking into the far away will dictate a wonderful poem, perhaps. I am a member in the Poetry Society, of Logan, Wilshire, a remarkable seven-year-old. He has written two poems in two years, has revelled in beautiful creations of his imagination.

One of his prose-poems is the following:

A Dream—The God of Dreams came to me last night and said to me, 'I am the God of the world when the world was a child. And in this child world there were two Gods; the God of Nature and the God of Art.'

The God of Nature provided all the materials, and the God took them and made them into wonderful things.

Nature gave Genius a pair of leaves and Genius made them into wings, and Nature gave wings for the butterflies, wings for all the things that fly. Such a wonderful dream! Such a wonderful world the world when it was a child.

A TURE ROMANCE.

A sister of the poet is associated with Sumbler, the winner of the Grand National. His owner is Mr. Tom Tyler, a Leicestershire sportsman living in London.

Last November Sumbler belonged to a man then using the name of H. Taylor. The horse won a race at Luton, and when the owner of the horse was leading him into the paddock he was recognized by detectives as a man wanted for a robbery. He was promptly arrested and in the name of Robert Willard was at Nottingham on February 6 sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment in the second division for frauds on tradesmen.

Sumbler's career has been varied. He began his racing career at 2 years old for £200 and returned as a "whistler" (damaged in the wind). Sumbler again in the care of his teacher had because of the punishment was not immediately forthcoming. That he was put in the market at £50. Mr. Tom Tyler, however, bought him for a client, and because of developments himself became the owner.

SILVER GIFT TO THE NATION.

The great set of three Charles II. pieces in silver gilt, at the Ashburnham sale for £2,700, have gone to the nation. Mr. George H. Hallett has been presented to the nation. Noting in the Ashburnham catalogue extensive marks on the pieces, he said which consists of a covered vase with a flask on either side.

They are remarkable for their unusual form, of numerous fruit and foliage and the beautiful tone of the gilding. They are the largest and most valuable gift ever made to the nation for the year 1676-8. They are exhibited in Room 39 of the Victoria and Albert Museum.

ENGLAND

The registrar general reports that the annual rate of mortality in the 97 great towns of England and Wales last week averaged 15.1.

A special constable at Rawmarsh in the Derbyshire constabulary, Mr. W. A. Tomlinson, who was well known in Primitive Methodist circles, was killed at the Central Criminal Court, on Wednesday, 2nd April, to consider the question of increased representation of the West Riding General District of Guardians and Rural District Councils, the West Riding General District Committee being of opinion that increased representation was necessary.

Mr. W. Hollins, a member of the Nottingham Golf Club, playing with a friend, was struck in the head by a stone and died in a stroke.

As a result of the recent recruiting campaign in the towns and districts, the Derbyshire Regiment is now at full strength, and recruits are still coming in. Since March it has not been necessary to have a large number of rejections as very small.

Mr. J. J. James, chief clerk at the Great Northern Railway goods department, Doncaster, upon his retirement, has been presented with a purse of £100 and a silver cigarette case.

Mr. John Hepworth, of Haynes Thorpe Lane, Dalton, Huddersfield, who has just celebrated his golden wedding, died on Saturday morning at the age of 87, and worked underground for 20 years, in the first three months only seeing daylight on Sunday.

Lieut.-Col. T. W. H. Mitchell, V.D., is retiring as officer in command of the 5th Royal York Dragoon Guards.

Major Joseph and Major Charles Fox, of Barnsley, will succeed him as commander. Captain T. C. Palmer will take charge of the Barnsley division.

Mr. F. D. Drabble, the president of the West Derbyshire Liberal Association, who had been a member of the Conservative Matlock for several weeks, is now making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

As an independent, of New Mills, died suddenly after a brief illness from acute pneumonia. The deceased was a director of the English Soda Company, of Colne, Lancashire, and manager of the New Mills Millbank, of which he was the owner.

Mr. C. L. Lomax, a solicitor, was admitted to the Bar.

WOUNDED BRITISH OFFICER MAKES TERRIBLE JOURNEY IN EAST AFRICA

Borne 500 Miles on a Stretcher in Waterless Country With Bullets in Both Legs—Wounded in Leading a Charge Against Abyssinians

Reader has received from East Africa details of an incident on the Anglo-Abyssinian frontier that will rank high in the annals of heroism and pluck displayed in the discharge of duty in an isolated outpost of Empire.

Lieutenant Lloyd Jones, with fifteen men, was on a difficult march in charge of a remote station to the southeast of Lake Rudolf, known as Lolyangala, some weeks from Nairobi. There were continuous rumors of Abyssinian raids, and in view of shortness of food caused by the non-arrival of the supply caravan, it was decided to go in search of a raiding party known to be in the neighborhood.

The party consisted of twenty white men, 25 King's African Rifles, a score or so of camels, and a dozen Somali constabulary. At first the search was in vain, but early on the morning of the fourth day a valley was reached, which seemed to be a likely hiding place of the robbers.

Scouts were sent out, and reported the existence of a strong stockade held by riflemen.

Rushed the Zarebs

It was necessary to leave the reader, and Lieutenant Lloyd Jones, leaving the majority of the men behind, advanced with fifteen riflemen. He soon came upon a circular thorn zareba ten feet high, and taking advantage of a dry river bed, he worked his way round so as to rush the only entrance to the place. At 25 yards distance he placed his men in V-shape formation, so as to prevent all egress from the stockade. Before firing the inmates were told that if they came out they would be spared. No answer being given, the bugler sounded the charge.

At this moment a man was seen crawling to the entrance of the zareba, to close the thorn gate, his movement being covered by an Abyssinian armed with a rifle. In answer to the bugle call, the soldier with rifle held high forward, fired a shot, but the bugler, while a soldier to the left of the commander was killed. Orders were heard in Abyssinia to shoot the white man, and as Lieutenant Lloyd Jones reached the gate he dropped, having been shot through both legs.

It was at twelve of the soldiers had retreated, leaving the white officers with only three ordered to stay at the mercy of the raiders. The orderlies attempted to carry their commandant off the field, but he refused to leave him, and with the help of the others accompanied, killing every man inside the zareba. The wounded officer was carried to the top of a neighboring hill, where the night was spent. Next morning a start was made for Marsabit, a post office distant. The political officer did all that was possible for the wounded, and fashioned splints out of his drawing box. Three days later the little group returned to their post on Lake Rudolf.

Two days after the fight an Indian medical assistant arrived after a forced march over a waterless country, but Lieutenant Lloyd Jones had been steadily growing worse. One leg had become septic, the pain was maddening, and the scanty supply of chloroform began to give out. It became urgently necessary to move, and Lieutenant Lloyd Jones, accompanied by his political officer, the Indian assistant, and a small escort began another ten days' trek across a waterless country. Two days later lockjaw supervened and with what few drugs were available shots were made to relieve the terrible sufferings of the wounded man. Three weeks after the fight Marsabit was reached, but the doctor was on foot, and messengers were sent to endeavor to find a surgeon and obtain medical supplies. The Lieutenant Lloyd Jones had taken charge of Dr. Dickinson, who was on his way home.

Charged by Rhinos

Two days out of Marsabit at dawn a couple of rhinos charged the wounded officer's stretcher, but both animals were turned at thirty yards by the soldiers who remained with their master to the end. By this time the strength of Lieutenant Lloyd Jones was at a standstill. There was still no doctor

JUSTIFIED IN KILLING FATHER

Sensational Ending to an Irish Murder Trial

There was a remarkable ending to a trial on the capital charge at the Monaghan Assizes.

After deliberating for fifteen minutes, the jury returned a verdict of "Not guilty" in the case of Francis King, aged sixteen, who was indicted for killing his father, a Carrickfergus farmer.

Lord Chief Justice Cherry said he entirely agreed with the verdict.

The circumstances of the case were sensational. The father, who was addicted to drink, arrived home from a vacation, violently intoxicated, at three o'clock in the morning. After putting his wife out he attacked his sixteen-year-old daughter because she refused to give him money, and after biting a piece from her neck he tried to strangle her.

Aroused by his sister's screams, the accused rushed to her assistance, struck his father on the head with a baton, compelling him to release the girl. Complications ensued, and the father died a month later.

The girl, in her evidence for the defence, said that so long as she remembered her father drank and systematically abused the whole family. Many nights they had slept in a barn to escape his violence.

WIRELESS OPERATORS ARE POORLY PAID

Are Forming a Trade Union to Demand Higher Salaries—Minimum Wage of 45 Shillings Asked

The recently formed trade union, the Association of Wireless Telegraphists, has already enrolled three hundred and seventy of the eight hundred and fifty operators at sea.

At the present time the wireless operator, who is half as heavy as a steamer officer, is paid from thirty-five to fifty-five shillings a week, and these are not increased while the men are ashore waiting for their boat to sail.

After his expensive training he receives appointment by the British Marconi Co. to a ship's junior operator at one pound a week, with annual increments of half-a-crown. Senior operators are paid from thirty-five to fifty-five shillings a week, and these are not increased while the men are ashore waiting for their boat to sail.

Often, they declare, they have to work and sleep in cabin offering inadequate accommodation, and "so damp as sometimes to interfere with the working of the wireless apparatus.

The Wireless Telegraphists' Association have been unsuccessful in gaining recognition from the British Marconi Co. They demand a minimum wage of thirty shillings for junior operators and forty-five shillings for senior operators, improved accommodation on board ship where necessary, freedom from the necessity of assisting the pierman in clerical work, and recognition of the association.

The general secretary of the association, Mr. E. E. T. Tait, said that the profession was at present nothing more than a blind-alley occupation.

Often, they declare, they have to work and sleep in cabin offering inadequate accommodation, and "so damp as sometimes to interfere with the working of the wireless apparatus.

Servants and the Telephone

"Life in the servants' hall has been emblittered to an extent hardly appreciated by employers by the telephone and the motor car," says the "Manchester Guardian." The man's estate affairs was expressed this way to a cook.

"Once upon a time," said the cook bitterly, "you did know where you were and whom you were going to feed at dinner time. Even if the master was returning unexpectedly to his town or country home where only half the staff was on duty he would send a telegram, and the railway journey would give one time to get the food to prepare a decent dinner." All the time the drawing room is congratulating itself on this wonderful century, with its facilities that make things so convenient and easy, the servants' hall is on the verge of mutiny over the inconvenience and extra work that these conveniences have caused."

Mutilating Cattle

A few nights ago the tails were cut off two bullocks grazing on the lands of Mrs. Kate Maughan at Carron, in the English county of Lancashire, in answer to the outrage. Mrs. Maughan, who is a shopkeeper and farmer, is very popular in the district.

Heroes' Monument Tarned

Bearing the names of Irish soldiers who fell in the South African War, a monument at Cork was found coated with tar.

Sorry Conditions of Rural Welsh Counties

Drift of Population to the Mining Centres Has Impoverished the Farm Laborers—Appalling Lack of Decent Houses

"What are the broad features of an outlook upon the homes of the people in Wales to-day?" asks that interesting new monthly, the Welsh Outlook.

"Until the 'forties' the bulk of the population was rural, generation succeeding generation in the same county, often in the same parish, sometimes in the very dwelling that had been the home of ancestors three centuries back.

All Has Changed

"Since then all has changed; the industrial riches of England, the coal and iron of South and Northeast Wales, have slowly but surely developed the country side. As of old, the fat lands of the 'alien' have drawn many an adventurous, bold, now, however, the adventurers no longer return to the hills with their plunder. An examination of the Census returns shows that in the pure rural population in Wales in 1911 was 49.2 per cent. of the whole. In 1911 it had fallen to 21.9 per cent. In 1911 the number of farm workers of all kinds was 32,466; in 1901, 72,452.

"Of the least populated counties of Wales, and Wales is the least populated of all, though not far, that during the last seventy years the total population has increased from one million to two and a half millions, of which one and a quarter millions live in the county of Glamorgan alone. In a word, the centre of gravity has shifted. Wales to-day is industrial.

"The environment past its children, for centuries past, the upland farms, the mountain pastures, the sheep, the flocks, the coal pits, the iron, the plate works, or the mean, monotonous street of the industrial village. For a tangible advantage in wages, an association with the soil has been exchanged, and in a generation are obliterated the immemorial traditions, the simple lore, and the varied craft of the country side.

Living in Hovels

"Meantime what of the rural districts themselves and their remaining population?" To the more enterprising of the farmers' sons, Manchester, two families are offered to live in two families in houses.

"A Shortage of Houses

"Low as the housing standard is in the industrial districts, one is again faced by the fact that the economic supply is far behind the demand. It is estimated that in the mining counties of South Wales there is an actual shortage of over 20,000 houses, and that in the metropolis of Cardiff over 14,000 families are compelled to live

GREAT FUR SALE IN OLD LONDON

40,000 Cat Skins in the Pile—2,500,000 Canadian Muskats to be Disposed of

Of the world's four great annual fur sales, perhaps that at the Nijni Novgorod fair, in August, is the one every body has heard about; there is another at Leipzig, soon after Easter, and one at Ishim, Siberia, in September. But the London spring sale is one that is known only to the trade.

The auction room in obscure College Hill. It has nothing to do with the Nijni Novgorod sale, and very considerable difficulty, translating "Muskat" into the English language, was experienced by the auctioneers with the spurious affairs of those historic companies, the Alaska Company, the Hudson's Bay Company, and the Royal Greenland Fur Company, their trappers and their territories.

When a "Daily News" visitor looked in the row of men on the rostrum, from the top of whom skins were being sold, he was struck by the fact that all the men were wearing hats, and very few indeed were wearing coats.

One had heard, also, that the seller, that elusive inhabitant of the Alaskan seas, was practically extinct.

But when a trapper heard news of a skins which were to be sold at 25/- a week, he was worth his weight in gold, and was looking for the animal.

The "Muskat" is now the most precious, as it is the most durable and perhaps the most beautiful of furs. What hunters' hardship, those 18 skins represent! It is impossible to imagine.

Lost 40,000 Cats!

But the most tragic item in the sales was the loss of some domestic pets, which are to be sold at 1/- each. A hammer. Where had they come from? This anxious question, put by the "Daily News" visitor, was merely smiled at.

"I can tell you what some of the choice tabby skins go in the shops. They go as genet skins. When they come from is another matter. Why ask?"

PRINTING RETURNS

Limited Beyond Necessity of Public Service.

Toronto, April 18.—Numbers once held against the Opposition in the Legislature yesterday when Mr. Bowell made a request that certain details of public importance should be included in the Printing Committee's report. He was backed up in this by a number of his own followers who spoke and by Mr. Allan Stadhorne (East Hamilton) but the Government were adamant and would not comply with the request.

The Opposition amendment was that the Printing Committee's report be amended by providing that the following returns be printed: Regarding securities sold by the Province, date of sales, etc.; timber limits sold by the Government during the last year; licences of William Sauch, of Bayham;

The CLEVEREST SHOP-GIRL YET—

How Mary Turner, In "Within the Law," Is Railroaded to Prison, How She Revenges Herself on Society and Her Employer and How Her Revenge Is Dissolved In Love.

NY ONE who seeks a sympathetic understanding of the conditions back of the satiation for a minimum wage scale for working women would do well to take up a position near one of the Subway kiosks or Elevated stations in New York along about 6 o'clock in the evening. It's a great place for the amateur sociologist. Members of Vice Commissions would be wasting their time there.

Not that there is very much vice on exhibition—New York streets are pretty well patrolled at 6 in the evening—but that is the time you see the shopgirls coming from their work, the time of day that finds them at their lowest vital pitch. The first thing that strikes an observer is how tired every last one of them looks, as though if she stood on her feet for another half hour she would crumple in a miserable heap.

"ENGLISH EDDIE" LAYS HIS SCHEME BEFORE MARY AND JOE

Women in that condition of life have three pressing wants, from two of which they are never free. They want enough food, they want enough clothing, and they want little opinion. And it is at 6 o'clock you can see penurious old bairns with each of their dearies.

None of them seems to be fashions, none of them dressed in rags, none of them has tears streaming down her face. If you look at the world you'll see somebody else on the job, for the shopgirls of a city who is a little better off than the others are overburdened. Of that you may be sure. Again and again you encounter that pinched, sharp, large-eyed look that means a restricted diet both in the society dame who endures it because she yearns to keep her figure and the shopgirl who endures it because she must.

And most of them are barely dressed. It is true there are a few exceptions, girls who are "dolled up" obviously beyond the means of the others, but they are few. They earn. But each of these carries the secret of her expensive clothes in her pocket or her face. They are not the type to walk, a single file or another of the casual, easily distinguished characters that brand men and women alike for the world to see. They give the Vice Commissions are interviewing. But most of the young women are modestly dressed, shoddy. That is the secret of the best they can afford.

Searching for Happiness

It is extremely interesting to watch these shopgirls just away from work, striving for happiness. And their work is to accustom them to their surroundings. They are the ones that amaze us.

It is amazing the number of them that stop and give pennies to the beggars and crippled children that are to be found at the entrances to the metropolitan network of transportation. You may count three or four every minute, and more, and more, generally throw a nickel in the hat when they throw away the change. The girls usually draw no more than a nickel. You can never pay them a happiness which a thousand and dollar, perhaps, couldn't buy for most of them. They are poor, but not pitiful, sometimes even loudly and vulgarly, but it is the reaction from the decorum forced on them during their years of servitude that makes them always a hint of weariness in it. Some are already absorbed in the fiction page of an afternoon paper for a cent in New York, if you take it in the printed form. Occasionally you see one of these girls with a single, slender, slender youth, in one way you sense the beginning of a story; in another it is only a reflection of the action of the police system which set the country ringing with indignation that a man could get away with it.

And so, after being on her feet for nine hours, the girl walks home to save her car fare—walks whether she's sick or whether she's well. And you're generally so tired it doesn't make much difference what you do.

It isn't likely that any one who sees the girl in the street at 6 o'clock in the evening is going to be surprised to find that she is manacled right at the end of the first act, but it is the keynote to which all the rest of the play responds.

Marie Gilder, who works in a big department store and manages to keep straight, even though she almost always is caught in the trap, is almost accused of stealing. She has been convicted and sentenced and on her way to prison is brought to the office of her employer, Edward Gilder, a second novel who went down to the ocean floor when the "Titanic" plunged for the ocean floor, and who had tested it by the first page. He meant the first page of a live newspaper. Would you story of his life, and in the end, in his life, find its way upon the first page of a big metropolitan newspaper? Gilder is a man who has had to make himself at home before he had tested it by his narrative.

Edward Gilder must also have reason to come in such fashion. Action was his first consideration—to make something happen and to keep it happening.

The result is that "Within the Law" is such a bulky yarn that any city editor or reporter can't get it all in one day and wants to cover the story in a city detective.
